Are Your Rate Levels Stale? Six Questions to Ask When Determining Growth and Profitability Goals

Congratulations! You just got that ever-elusive rate increase approved. And much like the insurance cycle that alternates between a soft market and a hard market, you're likely now shifting your focus from profitability to growth. This blog delves into questions our actuarial consulting team recommends you should be asking yourself immediately after your new rate levels are released to ensure you're meeting your targets relative to profitability and growth.

A Smoother Path to Reporting Legal/Regulatory Actions Against Insurance Agents and Agencies

Reporting legal or regulatory actions against insurance agents or agencies is a critical but often misunderstood part of maintaining compliance in the insurance industry. Though not complicated, reporting actions can be time-consuming, especially when it involves multiple jurisdictions. Learn more on how to stay compliant in this blog.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Perr&Knight's Arkansas State Legislature Work Continues with RFP; A Call to Action for Brokerage Firms and Captive Insurance Companies!

Kyle M. Hales, and the Risk Strategies & Solutions team's ongoing work with the Arkansas State Legislature has advanced! They are now leading the state's search for vendors to provide management services for a captive insurance company they are considering forming, as well as brokerage services for design and placement of a commercial property reinsurance tower to sit above the captive.

Calling All Captives Managers and Brokerage Firms: The RFPs can be accessed HERE under Bid Opportunities on the Procurement section of the AR Department of Transformation and Shared Services website.

published a new article providing more detail on the RFP and Perr&Knight's leadership of the initiative. Quoted in the article, Kyle Hales provides some perspective: "We will be doing the initial vetting," he told the Executive Subcommittee on Thursday. "Our thought is that we would get vendors to respond to each of these, and our goal is to try to narrow this down to maybe two or three that the Executive Subcommittee could evaluate and essentially decide to move forward with."
